WILD Growth

I've told everyone about it!

Your product has made my hair reach a new meaning of growth. I started using your product back in 2008, and ever since then I've been pleased. However, there are a few small things I would like to mention and ask. My understanding is that there are two different bottles, and when merged together the process is much faster. I've always assumed that there is just one bottle. In a way I feel a bit cheated, because I didn't know. I live in Boulder Colorado. As you can imagine there aren't many African American based hair products here. I don't get out much and so I need things to be convenient for me. I travel 15 miles just to get your product. "Can't live without it". I usually go to Sally's, but sometimes they don't even have (both) of your products available. ~~Now~~ that I've noticed that there are two, I try to pay more attention. Honestly it's difficult to tell them apart. My question is about the smell? What chemical makes it smell so horrible? don't get me wrong I swear by this product, but often times I have to use it at night or when I am not going anywhere.

I hope one day, that the smell will change, but in the meantime I want to say "Thank you". I am your biggest ~~Real~~ Fan. If you ever have a sell or are giving away hair oil "please please please contact me.
